Truman's Statement On Rail Situation Coming Today May Announce Plans For Seizure

Washington, Aug. 25.—(P)—The White House announced President Truman will issue a statement at 3 p. m. (EST) today on the threatened railroad strike.

Mr. Truman's aides declined to say whether it would be accompanied by an order for seizure of the railroads for government operation.

There were widespread reports, however, that the government was planning to take over the roads not later than tomorrow night.

Railroad conductors and trainmen, who called the strike for next Monday, have said they would work under government seizure.

Attorney General McGrath, following an hour and a quarter cabinet session, told reporters they "talked the whole situation over thoroughly," discussing "all the different angles."

Asked if seizure papers have been drafted, he repeated, "you will have to talk to the president about what he is going to do."

In response to questions, McGrath said another possible strike-stopping move, other than seizure, would be to seek a court order against a walkout. But he emphasized that he was speaking only of possibilities.

Mr. Truman told a news conference yesterday that the strike call—issued by the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen, and the order of Railway Conductors late Wednesday—was put out within an hour after he had been assured by both management and unions that there would be no walkout.

The strike call was issued after the collapse of White House sponsored peace talks directed by Dr. John R. Steelman, assistant to the president.

In advance of the cabinet meeting, a prominent administration official said seizure of the rail industry—either today or tomorrow—probably will be the president's method of dealing with the crisis.

The official—known to have attended a number of White House meetings on the situation—said the president has two other courses besides seizure, but they are unlikely possibilities.

One would be to apply for a court injunction to forbid the walkout of 300,000 trainmen and conductors. But the legal ground for such action is not settled.

The other would be a personal appeal from Mr. Truman for the unions and carriers to speed a settlement. But the wage-hour dispute has dragged on now since March 1949 and it is hardly likely.

Washington, Aug. 25.—(P)—House leaders today drove toward a quick vote on more than $50,000,000 worth of funds to run the government and build up U. S. military strength.

Most controversy centered around a compromise $33,850,000, 600 one-package bill financing most government agencies for the year which started July 1.

Of the background was a $16,771,064,478 emergency measure to finance the Korean fighting and build up the military might of the United States and its allies against Communism.

There was relatively little controversy over this measure. Its passage late today or tomorrow was taken for granted after a round of speech-making. The senate has not yet considered it.

The major obstacle before the regular omnibus measure which senate and house conferees worked out late yesterday was a promised loan to Spain. President Truman and Secretary of State Acheson oppose it.

The senate voted to direct the export-import bank to lend Spain $100,000,000. The house didn't even consider the Spanish loan when it passed the bill last May.

Its first opportunity to express its feelings toward Franco's government comes on the compromise bill, which trimmed the proposed loan to $62,500,000.

If house foes of the loan knock it out of the bill, the entire $33,850,000,000 measure must go back to the senate. That body would then have the choice of bowing to the house or returning the big bill to conference.

Washington, Aug. 25.—(P)—East Germany's Red leaders meet today to study ways of blocking rearmament of West Germany. As they gathered U. S. High Commissioner John J. McCloy warned that Russia appears to be readying the Communist republic as a base for a future attack on the West.

Hong Kong, Aug. 25.—(P)—Fifteen hundred British infantrymen sailed tonight to join United Nations forces in Korea—warned that they would be facing Russian weapons and strategy.

Washington, Aug. 25.—(P)—The chiefs of the army and navy returned today from a quick visit to the Korean war front and said they "sensed a general offensive spirit and air of optimism" by all the American fighting men.

Washington, Aug. 25.—(P)—A fierce senate battle over a move to attach an excess profits levy on corporations—with the outcome in doubt—threatened indefinite delay today for a $4,508,000,000 tax-boosting bill.

Senator George (D-Ga.) said he would take the big bill—asked by President Truman to help pay for increased military spending—back to the finance committee which he heads if the profits levy is pinned on.

If that is done, George said, his committee will hold hearings which might last four months. That, obviously, would rule out any tax increase this year.

The issue exploded as Senator Connally (D-Tex.) and O'Mahoney (D-Wyo.) yesterday offered an amendment, calling for an 85 per cent levy effective last July 1 on business profits that exceed what they define as normal. They estimated it would yield about $4,000,000,000 a year.

"Politically, if we are going to control prices and wages," Connally said, "we must control profits."

But George warned that pinning the excess profits tax to the bill might prevent any final tax action this year.

Meanwhile, the CIO bitterly assailed the tax-boosting bill drawn by the finance committee as a boon to wealthy taxpayers. It too, demanded that congress add the excess profits levy.

The committee of "Americans for Democratic Action" called the bill a "profits paradise." ADA is an organization of self-styled liberals.

Washington, Aug. 25.—(P)—An Army report that a Milwaukee doctor is getting an average of $1,125 a day to X-ray draftees.

At Milwaukee an Army officer confirmed that Dr. Irving Cowan has averaged $1,125 a day for his work this month, Sundays excluded, to X-ray and check plates of men examined at the Milwaukee induction center.

Maj. Gen. Raymond W. Bliss, Army surgeon general, told reporters he had "no knowledge of this situation."

"I shall check on it," he said. An inquiry was also promised by Rep. Vinson (D-Ga.), chairman of the house armed services committee.

"Of course, the government will get a lot of that back in income taxes," Vinson suggested to a reporter.

Capt. Thomas Appleby, Jr., public relations officer at the Milwaukee induction center, said Dr. Cowan gets $5 each for making and checking chest X-rays, and that Washington, Aug. 25.—(P)—A major battle over a new road to Taegu city broke out Friday in the Korean central warfront mountains.

It was being fought between Allied South Koreans and the invading Reds 12 to 25 miles north and east of Taegu.

Counter-attacking South Koreans regained ground they lost Friday morning. The first blow had been dealt by a forward force of 6,000 troops and tanks, probing before a 20,000-man Red force.

It was the Communists' fifth try of the week to open a road down from the mountains to the largest city left in the Allied southeastern corner of Korea.

An Allied spokesman said late Friday the South Korean Sixth Division was holding back Reds who drove southward toward Yongchon from positions east of the Kumwha. The Reds turned to this route from the "bowling alley" corridor where they failed four times in five days to crash through—at a cost of 3,500 men. Kumwha is 12 miles north of Taegu.

Yongchon is linked to Taegu by a major road. The battleline was astride a main highway and railroad running from Ulsong to Yongchon. The road passes through flat country good for tank fighting, south of the mountains.

All through Friday, the 62nd day of a war that has already claimed more than 100,000 lives, Allied bombers and fighters beat at the 30 divisions the North Koreans have around the whole 120-mile battle perimeter.

From the east coast to Taegu and south to coastal Chunghui, Allied planes bombed, strafed and rocketed the Red troops. Fire bombs were heaped on supplies behind the lines and on installations and airfields.

The main fighting raged east of the blood-soaked "bowling alley" corridor near Kumwha. The bloodiest combat was around Changno, 25 miles north of Taegu and seven miles east of Kumwhi, spreading the combatants over a blazing 12-mile front.

At the same time, American and South Korean troops rammed back a light tank-supported attack north of Humsu, 12 miles north of Taegu at the entrance to the alley.

This is the corridor where the defending allies beat back vicious Red assaults earlier in the week.

General MacArthur's final summary for Friday said the Allied defenders held their ground.

While this baffled threat to Taegu from the north dominated the whole Korean battle scene, the southwestern front before Masan, plagued with tanked combat. The fighting there was so close that

YOUNG DEMS TO MEET

Bradford, Aug. 25.—(P)—Young Democrats of Pennsylvania will discuss organization of clubs on college campuses at their annual state convention here Saturday. The college clubs would further the campaign efforts of Richardson Dilworth, Democratic nominee for governor, and U. S. Senator Francis J. Myers, who is seeking re-election. Dilworth will attend the convention.

San Francisco, Aug. 25.—(P)—Harry Bridges—by order of the Ninth U. S. Court of Appeals—is to be released from jail, probably today.

In a two-to-one decision late yesterday, the court ordered that the CIO Longshore leader be freed. It reversed an Aug. 5 federal court ruling revoking his $25,000 bail.

In April, Bridges was convicted of having lied—by swearing that he never was a Communist—to obtain citizenship in 1945. He was born in Australia.

He was freed on bond pending appeal from that conviction.

Three weeks ago, U. S. Prosecutor F. Joseph Donohue demanded that Bridges' bond be revoked and he be jailed as "a threat to the security of the United States."

Federal Judge George B. Harris agreed, and sent the union president behind bars.

San Francisco, Aug. 25.—(P)—Friedrich Flick, Hitler-era steel tycoon, and 18 other convicted Nazi war criminals scurried out of prison before dawn today—freed for good behavior.

"Go away! get out!" shouted Flick at newsmen and photographers as he raced through a driving rain to a waiting sedan.

The release of the 19 was the biggest single exodus of war criminals since the United States began operating the big stone prison here, where Hitler wrote his "Mein Kampf."

They had served two-thirds of their original sentences and were freed under relaxed regulations increasing time off for good conduct. All but one had been sentenced to seven years imprisonment for war crimes.

The prisoners, holding bundles before their faces to foil cameras, fled to automobiles in which relatives and friends sat.

In less than two minutes, all had cleared out of the prison's outer court yard.

The 69-year-old Flick, whose wartime steel empire employed 120,000 persons, was convicted by an American military court in Nuremberg Dec. 22, 1947, on charges of exploiting Russian slave labor and looting the German-occupied countries.

A few hundred yards from the prison today Hitler's former press chief Otto Dietrich prepared to climb into a car. When photographers approached hastily, he slammed the door, pulled a gray cap down over his eyes and took

NEW STRIKE LOOMS

Atlantic City, N. J., Aug. 25.—(P)—Nine thousand glass workers in West Virginia, Pennsylvania, New Jersey, Indiana, Ohio and scattered other points may strike on Labor Day, a union spokesman said. Wage negotiations collapsed yesterday. It would be the first major strike in the glass industry in more than 50 years.

BEST FAMILY PICTURE OF 1950—"STARS IN MY CROWN"

Opens at the Columbia Theatre For One Week Starting Saturday "Stars in My Crown," new M-G-M drama opening Saturday at the Columbia Theatre, stars Joel McCrea with a cast of screen favorites in the action-filled story of a two-fisted parson whose whisper spoke louder than six guns.

McCrea, inseparably associated with outdoor roles, plays the Civil War cavalryman turned preacher, who brings law and order, love and laughter to a small Southern community. Appearing opposite the star is Ellen Drew who portrays that unsung heroine, the housewife and the gentle power behind many a man's success. As their little ward, who contributes much of the laughter to the story, is Dean Stockwell, popular juvenile star who recently scored in "The Secret Garden."

An outstanding supporting cast features Alan Hale, Lewis Stone, Juano Hernandez, who won wide critical praise for his performance in "Intruder in the Dust." Charles Kemper and Connie Gilchrist. The picture's subsidiary romance features James Mitchell, recruited to films after his success on the Broadway stage, and Amanda Blake, another talented newcomer who makes her screen debut in the role of a pretty school teacher.

DEAR PATRONS:

As manager of the Columbia Theatre, it gives me great pleasure to tell you that our city has been honored by being chosen for a special advance showing of the M-G-M production "Stars In My Crown".

This city was selected over hundreds of others because it most nearly represented the community life and spirit that is portrayed in the picture. "Stars In My Crown" tells the stirring story of a typical American town and its people and its fighting parson. "Two-Gun" Parson Gray was a man whose words were loaded as well as his guns. You'll admire and understand him.

"Stars In My Crown", starring Joel McCrea, Ellen Drew and Dean Stockwell, is already being hailed as one of the finest family pictures of 1950. It has just been awarded the Parent's Magazine medal for outstanding merit. It is based on a series of Saturday Evening Post stories and the book by Joe David Brown that thrilled countless readers.

I personally consider "Stars In My Crown" an exceptional entertainment and I urge you all to see it.

Sincerely, EDW. KNUFF, Manager.

Miniature Bookmobile Will Be Displayed During Library Meeting at North Warren

A three thousand volume de miniature bookmobile from Ohio, a state with a high reputation for library service, will be a major attraction at the County Bookmobile meeting next Tuesday. But a miniature bookmobile loaned by Miss Mary True, of Erie, will also have a share of attention because of the place its owner had in the development of county library service.

The Warren County Friends of the Library considers it an honor to display the tiny library on wheels among its exhibits at the county-wide meeting in the North Warren Community House. But the real honor is having Miss True, a pioneer in county library service, present at the meeting.

Some years ago when Miss True was chairman of the Pennsylvania Federation of Women's Clubs' Committee on county library service, she was a guest speaker at the Warren Woman's Club and remembers that experience with considerable pleasure. Not only clubs but national and regional gatherings of librarians have found Miss True's approach refreshing whether her subject was a unique experience in the Foxboro Library, the Erie City Library or county library service.

A Philadelphia newspaper gave headline attention to one of her talks at a national convention in Atlantic City, terming it "as fresh as an ocean breeze". Representatives of the Friends of the Warren County Library visiting Miss True in Erie found the phrase still applies. Her zest for libraries and her belief in a library on wheels as the most effective way of spreading better thinking and enjoyment in books has in no way dimmed. One of her joys has been the fulfillment of her efforts, in cooperation with others in city and county, in the establishment of a county-wide Bookmobile service in Erie County and the efforts in Warren County to secure a similar service.

Miss True was at one time a member of the faculty of the State Teachers' College at Clarion. Before her retirement she was one of the most vital members of the Erie Public Library staff, in charge of the library's extension work. She has always shown true librarianship, imagination and warm humanity, whether in her work for a county library or in a band of traveling story tellers in gypsy costume. The originality of her displays attracted considerable attention. One, the Road of Books and Reading Through Childhood was featured at a National Association of English Teachers by a leading library supply firm.

The list of persons mentioned in a previous article as lending assistance with the panel discussion, the name of Mrs. Jeanne Barwis Lopez, head of the Warren Public Library was inadvertently omitted.

Penn'a Fighting 28th Division

By JOHN KOENIG, JR.

Harrisburg, Aug. 25.—(P) — Pennsylvania's 28th Infantry Division, which marches off to the wars again on Sept. 5, earned its title of the "Iron Division" the hard way in World War One.

The division's title came from Gen. John J. Pershing after he took a look at the record of the Pennsylvania National Guardsmen in action in Europe.

Lt. Col. Frederick Palmer, war correspondent and member of Pershing's staff, said principal reasons for dubbing it the "Iron Division" were these:

"Its habit of fighting and sticking no matter what the odds were against it.

"The fact that it was the only division in any of the Allied armies which was able to reorganize in the midst of battle and go on fighting.

"Its tanks and men running over a German counter-attack and smashing it before it was fairly launched."

World War One was the first real battle test for the 28th Infantry division as such although some of its elements can trace their lineage back to 1747.

Maj. Gen. John F. Hartfrant had combined a number of loosely knit military units into the commonwealth's first division in 1878, but not until Oct. 11, 1917, did the 28th officially come into being. It happened at Camp Hancock, Ga., where Pennsylvanians were training to fight. The division's insignia was designated as a Red Keystone-shaped patch—for the Keystone State—worn on each soldier's left shoulder. First called the Keystone Division, it later earned a nickname.

Maj. Gen. Charles C. Clement, of Sunbury, commanded the 28th in its training days at Camp Hancock.

Camp Atterbury, Ind., where the present 28th will go after Sept. 5, may serve like Hancock as a springboard for additional action.

On Dec. 15, 1917, command of the division passed to the fighting leader of its combat service in France, Maj. Gen. Charles H. Muir.

Gen. Muir later was advanced to corps commander, but with the 28th still under his command, Maj. Gen. William H. Hay then assumed command of the division.

The "Keystone Division" promptly assumed the role of Keystone on the Allied line in France after leaving the U. S., in May, 1918.

The troops trained for a time with the British and French, but were thrown into battle without ever having served in a quiet sector.

From there on in, the Pennsylvanians never did have a chance to serve in a quiet spot.

At the time the 28th moved into the line, the situation for the Allies was critical. They had been on the defensive since March and the Germans were free to determine the time and place to attack.

The 28th took its place between the enemy and Paris as the German drive for the French capital began. The 109th Infantry Regiment, though inexperienced, met the brunt of the attack by picked German troops.

For five days and nights, the 109th fought as the battle swayed back and forth. They stopped the enemy and this proved to be the high water mark of the German offensive.

stand made by the regiment, remarked: "Why they are iron men!" and the name stuck.

Seth Myers, secretary of the Northwest Division, Pennsylvania Federation of Sportsmen's Club, suggests that federal funds that will soon be made available for stream improvement be used only on public lands and not on streams that might be closed to fishermen by private interests.

"Now that the Dingell Bill has become Federal Law," he writes, "it means that the government will pay 75% of the cost of our fish restoration projects while the state fish commission pays the balance. Of course there are limits on the amount each state will receive annually. The Federal money will come from the present 10% tax on fishing tackle. This tax is collected at the expense of the tackle manufacturers but in the final analysis, it comes from the sport fisherman pocket. It must be used for fish restoration only. Boiled down, stream improvement.

"There are many streams in Pennsylvania in need of improvement if they are to produce enough fish to keep our anglers happy. I'm referring to the many thousands who cannot travel to Canada to fish, or afford to join some private fishing club.

"Many hundreds of miles of streams are on Game Commission lands and the areas under the Department of Forests and Waters. Added to those, are more than five hundred miles of streams in the Allegheny National Forest. These streams should never be posted or closed to public fishing. With an ever increasing trend toward privately controlled streams we are confronted with a future shortage of public fishing holes. So let us take time out now, to looking into that future, or at least, attempt it.

"Would it not be wise to spend this fish restoration money on the publicly owned streams rather than those that may at some future time fall into private hands? Why spend years of work and large amounts of public money building up privately owned streams that can later be leased for privileged fishing by a few individuals? This can happen, you know.

"Why not a state wide cooperative plan between the above mentioned departments? Of course it would be under direction of the fish commission but with full cooperation of the others, a good job could be done."

Piano-playing maestro Sketch Henderson will be the guest for Mutual's Twenty Questions to be broadcast over WNAE-FM on Saturday evening at 8:00. Bill Slater will be the moderator for this radio version of the old parlor game.

The 30-voiced Glendale, Calif., Kiwanis Chorus will be spotlighted for the eleventh program in the current series of Kiwanis-sponsored groups over the Mutual network at noon on Sunday. The program will be heard over WNAE-FM. H. Park Arnold directs the chorus.

Mutual's reporter on the national scene, Fulton Lewis, Jr., returns to his week-day news commentary periods over WNAE-FM next Monday at 7:00 p. m. The MBS commentator has been vacationing during the past four weeks, with newsmen Robert F. Hurligh and Henry LaCossitt pinch-hitting for him.

Mezzo-soprano Margart Harshaw and basso Nicola Moscona, both of the Metropolitan Opera, will be the guests for the Sylvan Levin Opera Concert Sunday evening at 9:00 p. m. over WNAE-FM. The two artists will combine their voices to sing the duet, "Qui Chiamata M'avele" from Ponchielli's "La Gioconda". Sylvan Levin will conduct the orchestra.

Remember, you've got your choice of two programs most hours of the day over WNAE and WNAE FM. If you're not a baseball fan, you can hear a fine variety of programs over Mutual every afternoon over WNAE-FM. Check the daily schedules in the Times-Mirror for complete listings.

Lanny Ross was the guest of honor at the annual Welsh Day Festival at Pottsville, Pa. last Wednesday. Lanny was a bit puzzled when he received from the sponsoring group to sing "Lloerlun Rhosynau" (cq) at the festival. The tenor thought it was an acute case of typographical error. A confused telephone call cleared up the problem. They were merely requesting Lanny's old standby and theme song—"Moonlight and Roses".

HAROLD W. GEIGER Soil Conservation Service

Hello, folks. Another week of cool "summer weather" is past. Conservation farmers in Warren County who are counting on grass for their chief forage crop are more enthusiastic than ever. It's been a fine year for grasses and legumes.

Fond construction is in full swing with the advent of dry weather. Art Elberg, dozer operator, started work on Hugh Sechrist's pond in Glade Township. Art also has the job of building Herman Moll's pond in Elk township as soon as he completes the pond for Hugh.

Max Warner, Sugar Grove farmer, is making plans to use the Sugar Grove Township bulldozer to build his pond within the next week or so. Max plans to build a quarter acre pond just behind his house and barn to be used for fire protection. He also plans to stock the pond with bass and bluegills for some real good fishing.

John Steimer, forester, W. Gahagen, engineer, and Warren Lowe, local superintendent, all of the Penna. Highway Department met with Harold W. Geiger and Ralph G. Eckert of the Soil Conservation Service at two farms near Sugar Grove on Monday. Highway and farm water disposal problems were considered. Culvert outlets on the Paul Slagle farm were checked and a road ditch proposed as a terrace outlet on the Lloyd Nelson farm was inspected.

Conservation farmers, professional conservationists, and others interested in conservation of our natural resources are meeting today and Saturday, August 25 and 26 at State College. Several from Warren County are in attendance. The occasion is the fourth annual meeting of the Keystone Chapter of the Soil Conservation Society of America. A varied program includes talks by W. L. R. Drake, from the Penna. Department of Forests & Waters, Leo A. Luttlinger, Penna. Game Commission, Marshall Stalley, Allegheny Conference on Community Development, and H. C. Fetterolf, Head of Vocational Agriculture in Penna.

Tours are planned for Saturday morning to include conservation work done on State Game Lands in Centre County, Conservation experimental work at the Penna. State College, and the Home Economics Dept. and Rose Gardens at the College.

The Soil Conservation Society of America is a fairly new organization covering the Western Hemisphere with members from every state in the U. S. and a number of Central and South American countries. Membership is not restricted to professional men, but is open to all interested in furthering the conservation of our nation's soils. At present, members come from the fields of farming, business, religion, professional agriculture, education, and industry.

Engineering Books For Public Library

The International Correspondence Schools at Scranton paid special tribute to the memory of Fred Keller, late assistant chief engineer of Struthers-Wells, this week when their representative L. Edward Johnson presented the Warren Public Library with a set of books on mechanical engineering. This set is the reference library in this field prepared by the ICS. It consists of 55 volumes and the special bookplate in each volume is a dedication to "The Fred Keller-ICS Memorial Library".

Leon Johnson, chief engineer of Struthers-Wells, was in attendance at the presentation of the books to the librarian, Mrs. Jeanne Barwis Lopez.

According to Mr. Johnson, this is the first time the ICS has honored any of their graduates with a memorial library. (It was arranged by Mr. Johnson to honor Mr. Keller for his interest throughout the years in the future for young men in the engineering field.) Mr. Keller was responsible for many of today's engineers and draftsmen who became interested in this work through Mr. Keller's encouragement, guidance and recommendation for further study.

The public library is grateful for this donation particularly because technical books are so important now. It appreciates the honor not only to Mr. Keller, but to the Warren Public Library.

Mr. Keller enrolled with the ICS in 1904 in the mechanical engineering course and, in August 1906, started to work for Struthers-Wells as a blue print boy. He continued with this company until his recent death, at which time he was assistant chief engineer.

Shirley May Has Tiff With Family And Leaves Home

Dighton, Mass., Aug. 25—(P)—Unsuccessful Channel swimmer Shirley May France has quit the family home after what she described as "a personality conflict" with her father.

And, she says, she does not intend to return. The husky 18-year-old girl has taken up residence with her coach, Harry Boudakian, and his wife. She said they are her best friends.

Her father, J. Walter France, said she walked out with the parting farewell: "Goodbye, Mr. France. Have a good time with your neighbors."

Newsman reached the young woman at the Boudakian home last night—24 hours after she disappeared from her Somerset home.

Shirley May said she decided to break with her family after "an argument with my father over plans for the future—all he was interested in was money."

She said her father wanted her to make a personal tour while she is anxious to return to Somerset high school to enter her junior year. Boudakian is athletic coach at the school.

As far as her mother and I are concerned she can stay away forever," France said. "We did the very best we could for her."

France said his daughter showed her first "resentment" while training in England this summer for her second Channel attempt. Her attitude, he added, caused him to return home ill.

Truman's Statement on Rail Situation Coming Today

(From Page One)
That any such appeal could result in an agreement before 6 a. m. Monday (local time), the strike deadline.

Furthermore, President Truman probably wouldn't be disposed to make any such appeal to the unions, the official said, because of the way Mr. Truman feels the labor groups have treated him.

At a news conference yesterday, Mr. Truman was plainly irked at the unions for having assured him there would be no nationwide strike and, only an hour later, issuing their all-out strike class.

The unions have said their members will work in the event of seizure.

Pointing up the urgency of the situation was a tie-up of railroads in Canada, bringing hardship to many communities and touching off a move for emergency legislation to deal with the crisis.

Meanwhile, the senate labor committee was due to take another look today at the bill by Senator Donnell (R-Mo) to bar all rail strikes and require arbitration of labor disputes in the industry.

Fifth Assault In Week Made By Communists

hand-grenades were used by American Negro infantrymen of the 25th division's 24th regiment.

Action there was limited to day-long indecisive fighting for the saw-toothed heights of Sobuk near Tundok.

Intelligence reports indicated a second Red thrust was building toward Masan port and the important harbor of Pusan, 27 air miles east of the coastal city.

In the east, two South Korean units—the Third and Capitol divisions—jumped off in a coordinated attack, supported by naval gunfire, against the first extensive defensive positions erected by the Reds north of Pohang Port on the Sea of Japan.

RECORD NUMBER AUTO PLATES NEXT YEAR

Harrisburg, Aug. 25—(P)—Pennsylvania may issue a record number of automobile license plates in 1951.

State Welfare Secretary William C. Brown, anticipating a new high in the number of cars in operation, said yesterday that the revenue department has ordered 3,250,000 sets of tags.

He said the project, at the Western State Penitentiary, is about one-third finished. He added that 1,500 tons of sheet metal for the 1952 tags already have been ordered.

C.I.O. Longshore Leader Is Ordered Freed From Jail

Donohue argued that Bridges' speeches opposing U. S. intervention in the Korean war followed the Communist line.

The majority opinion described Bridges' jailings as "novel and startling."

"There is no showing," said Judge William Healy and William Orr, "that Bridges has in the present position committed any recognizable crime, or that he has himself counseled or advocated sabotage or sought to foment strikes or the establishment of picket lines on the waterfront."

In dissenting, Judge Clifton Matthews cited trial Judge Harris' statement that the Communist Party is a conspiracy and members of the party "are parties to that conspiracy."

Retail Milk Prices Going Up Sept. 1st

wholesale likewise rising from $4.78 a hundred weight to $5.35.

Permanent orders issued yesterday placed the new retail price of milk in the Johnstown-Altoona area at 20 1/2 cents a quart, with wholesale $5.42 1/2 a hundredweight instead of the present $4.35.

Johnstown-Altoona price order also eliminated bottle deposits in Bedford, Clearfield, Jefferson and Somerset counties.

THE MARKETS

New York, Aug. 25—(P)—Stock prices thudded lower all along the line today. Losses piled up to around $2 a share for key issues before the market showed signs of having touched bottom.

Heavy trading accompanied the decline. The setback was one of the largest since the market started rallying about six weeks ago. The rally recouped all the losses, on average, which followed the Korean war. Today's selling was credited to uneasiness over the fact that President Truman has not yet announced his plans to avert a rail strike scheduled for Monday.

The Nation Today

(Editor's Note: This is the second of a series explaining the big changes voted by congress in the Social Security program. They can't become law unless the president approves them. It seems certain he will. Therefore, these changes will be treated as if they had become law. It is suggested that anyone following this series save the individual stories. To save space, repetition will be avoided where possible in the successive stories.)

By James Marlow

Washington, Aug. 22—(AP)—Your Social Security tax is scheduled to go up. So is the amount of your pay that's taxable.

1. Until Jan. 1, 1951 only the first $3,000 of your pay can be taxed for Social Security. After Jan. 1, it's the first $3,600.

2. The tax itself will go up in 1954, again in 1960, again in 1970, and, for the last time, in 1970.

This explains how the tax works and will work:

If you're employed long enough in a job covered by the Social Security law, you'll get an old-age pension or, if you die, benefits for your survivors.

The pension and the benefits are paid out of a special Social Security fund made up of a special tax on covered jobs.

An employee in a covered job, and his employer, share equally in paying that tax.

(The law permits an employer to pay the whole tax himself, his share and yours, but few bosses do.)

Right now the tax is 1½ per cent each (total 3 per cent) on the first $3,000 of your pay. That means you and your boss each pay a tax of $45 (total $90) if you get as much as $3,000 a year.

At this moment—and until Jan. 1, 1951—no matter how much you earn above $3,000, the tax is only on the first $3,000.

(If you find you've been taxed for more than the first $3,000 of it, you can get a refund for that year from Social Security.)

But, starting Jan. 1, 1951, the tax will be on the first $3,600 of your yearly pay, although the rate of the tax itself remains the same until 1954.

So, after Jan. 1—with you and your boss each paying 1½ per cent on that first $3,600 of your pay—each of you will be paying $54, a total tax of $108.

But something else happens on Jan. 1. On that date about 10,000,000 people whose jobs never before were covered by Social Security will be admitted to the program.

They include self-employed people, domestic workers, regularly-employed farm workers, employees of non-profit organizations, and others. For all except the self-employed the same rules apply: The employee and the employer will each pay 1½ per cent on the first $3,600 of the worker's wages.

But there's a difference with the self-employed. The tax on a self-employed man, since he has no boss to share the total cost, will be 2 1/4 per cent, or 1½ times that of an employee or employer, individually.

Therefore, a self-employed man will pay a total tax of $108 on the first $3,600 of his pay.

This is more than an employer and employee individually pay ($54 each) on the first $3,600 of a worker's pay but less than their combined total tax of $108.

And that's the way it will be until Jan. 1, 1954.

Although the amount of earnings that can be taxed remains the same—$3,600—the tax on it will go up for the employee, employer, and the self-employed.

It will continue to go up at intervals until 1970 when it rises for the last time. But, as it rises, the self-employed will continue to pay a tax of 1½ times that of an employee or employer.

Here's how the tax will go, starting Jan. 1, 1951, when the taxable earnings rise to $3,600 from the present $3,000:

1951 to 1954—1½ per cent each on the employee and employer (total 3 per cent) but 2 1/4 per cent for the self-employed.

1954 through 1959—2 per cent each on the employee and employer (total 4 per cent) but 3 per cent on the self-employed.

1960 through 1964—2½ per cent each on the employee and employer (total 5 per cent) but 3¾ per cent on the self-employed.

1965 through 1969—3 per cent each on the employee and employer (total 6 per cent) but 4½ per cent on the self-employed.

1970 and thereafter—3 1/4 per cent each on the employee and employer (total 6½ per cent) but 4 7/8 per cent for the self-employed.

Lutheran Boys At Birdsall Edey Are Having Great Time

An additional group of boys won camp letters Thursday at the Lutheran Boys Camp, Birdsall Edey, at Grunderville and now more than one-third of the boys have earned the coveted "L".

Swimming, hiking and various games kept the boys busy yesterday. Swimming instruction continues under the guidance of Chuck Webster, and Ben Hucksone, who knows the Grunderville area like Daniel Boone knew Kentucky, leads the hikes through the woods about camp.

Last evening's camp fire was attended by members of the Christian Fellowship Class of First Lutheran Church, who enjoyed a tureen supper at the camp.

Results of Thursday's games between the different camp units were as follows: Thiel defeated Gettysburg and Wittenberg trounced Roanoke at muskball; in volleyball, Thiel beat Gettysburg and later Gettysburg won from Wagner; Carthage bested Wagner and Roanoke won from Wittenberg at basketball.

Mrs. Kathryn Stowell has returned home from the Warren hospital, after being a patient.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Osborne, Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Conover, North East, were Sunday visitors of Mr. and Mrs. Mark Mungen.

Mrs. Everett Wiler and children, Garland, spent the weekend with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. James Durkin.

It was said the tax rate is "scheduled" to rise at stated intervals in the years ahead. That was the decision of congress recently in making big changes in the Social Security program.

But when the time comes for the tax to rise, congress may postpone it. It has done that in past years when the Social Security tax had been scheduled, by congress, to go up.

The RANGE DOCTOR

by OSCAR J. FRIEND

Chapter 17

DR. LOGAN confined himself zealously to the practice of medicine for the next ten days. Then one night Logan was called to the lower end of the town near the coachyard on an emergency. What Reynolds, the blacksmith, had been stabbed over the heart. Robbery, apparently, the motive, as his pockets had been rifled and his heavy gold watch, chain and all, had been torn from his vest.

Logan was too late. Just before he died the blacksmith managed to whisper two words to the physician, the name of a man.

Matlock finally arrived and got away to his usual sluggish start of finding no clues to act upon. Griggsby, on the other hand, possessed some interesting information. He knew that Reynolds had owned a small stretch of land along the proposed right-of-way of the railroad and that the blacksmith had refused the ridiculous price of one dollar per acre offered him by the Hohner Land Development Company.

Logan compressed his lips silently. He knew what he had to do.

It was a couple of days before he located Cherry Russell, a half-breed Indian knife and dice artist of unsavory repute whose usual haunt was the Botella de Repleto at Frijoles Flats. The doctor rode up and dismounted taking his satchel from the saddle.

"You're Cherry Russell?" he asked, approaching the fire as the breed got suspiciously to his feet.

"Yeah," Russell said in a surly voice. "Why?"

"Who hired you to kill Whit Reynolds?" Logan asked bluntly.

"Who says I killed Reynolds?"

"I do. No use denying it. Reynolds told me before he died."

The half-breed was not a talking man. With a grunt, he whipped out his knife and lunged viciously at his accuser. Logan leaped backward, dropping his satchel and raising his right hand. In it he gripped a gleaming long-barreled .38. Logan shot him through the head just as the knife descended.

Heart sick and shaken, Logan rode back to town. What an infernal mess of things he had made.

The next day a pair of horse wranglers found the body of the half-breed and brought it to town. In one pocket was found the thick gold watch which had belonged to the blacksmith. On the dead man's chest was pinned a worn playing card, the ace of hearts, and printed across the face was: The Range Doctor.

Judge Steele was fit to be tied. He went back to the newspaper office with Logan, stopping by the Texas Tommy to get Overstreet. In Logan's office the judge confronted Overstreet and Griggsby with the evidence.

"I don't like this," the judge went on bitterly. "Granting that this Range Doctor is nailing the right culprits, this is not getting at the root of the evil. I think either you or Overstreet must be the Range Doctor. Why don't you come to your senses? It's the land company we're after—not their hired killers."

"I'm working on that," Griggsby said in some heat. "I haven't been able to get a shred of evidence against Jack Naylor yet. As for Charlie Hohner, that slick land shark has been just sitting in his office handling legal details since he came to Gila City last week."

"Have you talked with him yet?" the judge asked. "I mean, simply as a citizen and the editor of the newspaper?"

"No," Griggsby admitted, glancing at Logan.

Logan felt constrained to come to Griggsby's defense. "What Uncle Tom means, Judge Steele," he said, "is that he befriended me when Hohner and Naylor made me an orphan. He forced Hohner to pay a bigger sum than he intended to for a quicklime deed to Dad's staked homestead."

Overstreet looked at the doctor curiously. "Hohner killed your father, Logan?"

"He or Naylor. I never knew which one. They guntrapped him together."

"That's all the more reason, I'd say, to call on Hohner," Overstreet commented.

"By God, I will!" said Griggsby, jamming on his hat.

Judge Steele motioned towards the door. "I think we'll all four call on Mr. Hohner as a matter of civic duty."

SAVE for the two shirt-sleeved clerks busy with their book-keeping and Hohner himself going through a sheaf of papers at his desk, they found the land company office deserted.

Hohner's pale eyes flickered over the group, coming to rest on Griggsby. "A. yes, Griggsby. How are you?"

"Exactly the same as you remember," Griggsby answered shortly. "Where's Naylor?"

"Just as you say, Judge," Overstreet agreed obediently.

Griggsby and the judge joined the doctor, looking down at Hohner's based chair. There, just left of center and right above the heart, were two bullet holes almost tangent to each other. A silver dollar would have covered them both.

BATTLE RESPITE—Deep hillside trenches mar a peaceful scene on the South Korean countryside as weary American soldiers dig in above the road to await the inevitable attempts by the Communists to advance. A lull in the fighting gave American troops a chance to rest and strengthen their defenses. A short while later, the battle raged again in southwest Korea.

When he ran across a large bed of rock while excavating a basement for his wooden shack at Fox River Grove, Ill., he decided to convert the shack to a real 20th Century Castle. Bettendorf, a 61-year-old bachelor, spent 19 years on his project, moulding cement blocks and setting each stone by hand. He was born in Vianden, Luxembourg.

Warren Merchants and Nat'l Forge Open Series Tomorrow

Warren Merchants and the National Forge will square off tomorrow afternoon in the first round of a three-game series for the 1950 city baseball championship.

The game is slated for the State Hospital diamond, starting at 2:30 o'clock.

Both sides have plenty of followers, and you can take your choice as to the favorite.

The Merchants won the championship of the Sunset Baseball League, and also played as a unit in numerous independent games.

Their record for the season shows 24 wins against eight defeats.

National Forge has played as a team unit in 14 independent games this season, winning nine and losing five. However, virtually all of the members have played throughout the season on Sunset League clubs.

Don Gheres will be on the mound for the Merchants, while the Forge will probably counter with Keith Vesling.

Umpires for the game will be brought in from Jamestown, and a large crowd is expected to be on hand.

Tarentum Defeats Youngsville Merchants in State Tourney

Tarentum Phillies, a big hard-hitting team, knocked the Youngsville Merchants out of the State Hot Stove Tournament at Tarentum last night by a 1-6 count.

The game was played before a crowd of some 2500 persons, and a portion of the play by play was broadcast by Rosy Rowsell, Pittsburgh Pirate announcer. Cy Butler, national president, and other Hot Stove officials also were on hand to witness the game.

The Youngsville team, Warren Hot Stove Intermediate champions, opened with Tink Lyons on the mound. He gave way to Whitie Rickerson in the fourth frame. Witucki, a six-footer, was on the mound for the Phillies.

McAllister, batting in the cleanup spot for Youngsville, scored two of his team's runs and drove in two others with a home run in the fifth frame.

The squad remained in Tarentum overnight, and was scheduled to play a consolation game with Monaca, which also was knocked out of the tournament yesterday.

Robinson To Meet Basora at Scranton

Scranton, Aug. 25.—(P)—For the second time in two weeks Sugar Ray Robinson defends a boxing championship tonight—and once again the Harlem Dandy isn't going to become rich for his efforts.

At 10 p. m. Robinson engages Jose Basora, hard-hitting Puerto Rican, in a 15-round bout for the middleweight championship, Pennsylvania version. Jake Lamotta holds the National Boxing Association middleweight title.

Robinson has been guaranteed a take of $7,500 or 35 per cent of the gate, but he owes the Pennsylvania Boxing Commission $1,000 and damage suits totalling some $6,000 are pending against Robinson for running out on a previous date with Basora.

The Sugar was supposed to fight Basora here July 16 but he bowed out complaining of a sore back. Commission physicians examined him and found nothing wrong with his back.

Two weeks ago Robinson decided to fight Basora in a bout for Robinson's world welterweight title. The Sugar gave his purse to the Damon Runyon Cancer Fund.

What Has Happened to Louis To Force Him Back at 36?

BY BARRY GRAYSON
NEA Sports Editor

NEW YORK.—(NEA)—Joe Louis now says disallowed income tax deductions have driven him back to the prize ring.

But that isn't the way we heard it in mid-March of last year. Louis related how, when he came out of the Army, he had some property and annuities.

John Roxborough, who developed him, made him vice president of a life insurance society. "This is getting bigger all the time and, while it doesn't pay so much now, it will get better," commented Smoky Joe.

Louis pointed proudly to his Chicago School of Automotive Trades. "It's the biggest thing to me so far," said Louis, the new businessman. "Because it is a GI training school, the government pays $485 for each of the veterans to go to school and also pays for their food and clothing. We don't take more than 250 boys at a time. I'll have an income and still be helping folks."

Louis stressed a percentage deal with a soft drink corporation, didn't even know how much he made from it, but the money was put in savings and he knew it was a good nest egg.

He was in television, an officer of a California corporation.

EXHIBITIONS paid $160,000 in six months. He rejected an offer of a $200,000 guarantee for a coast-to-coast summer tour of Canada made by a Toronto promoter because Joe Louis Enterprises, Inc., wanted to handle the road show, too.

Money was pouring in from fight pictures.

And while Louis didn't say so, along about that time he was paid $150,000 for relinquishing the heavyweight championship, becoming the partner of James D. Norris and Arthur Wirtz in the formation of the International Boxing Club and completing arrangements for the Ezzard Charles-Jersey Joe Walcott match in Chicago.

The work was spreading. Things were so bright that Louis turned down a $500,000 bid from a circus to box exhibitions after the big show nightly for seven months.

Joe Louis Enterprises, Inc., was making surveys of various propositions in different cities.

The corporation idea helped reduce taxes—Louis thought.

So, you see, much happened in 17 months to force Joe Louis back to the training he learned to despise after 17 years.

NEW YORK.—(NEA)—With Pancho Gonzales a professional, Budge Patty took a tremendous burden off the shoulders of the United States Lawn Tennis Association's Davis Cup selection committee by winning the Wimbledon championship.

California had again come through, this time via Paris, where the international playboy turned serious, has made his home since the war. Then, just 24 hours before the selection committee was to speak its piece, Patty, the stylist, sprained an ankle in the Newport Casino doubles, couldn't possibly be ready for the Australians in the challenge round at Forest Hills.

But California never runs out of tennis players.

And this is as good a time as any to say that it is just as well for this country's Cup chances that Tom Brown's law school days are over. Australia will go on with two men, the 22-year-old Frank Sedgman, and the 21-year-old Jack Bromwich, the experts figure.

They don't give the veteran American doubles team of Billy Talbot and Gardnar Mulloy too much chance against Sedgman and Bromwich.

SO, the way the sharpies have it doped, if Ted Schroeder repeats Sedgman and Bromwich in singles, Brown must turn back one or the other if the cup is to remain in the United States.

Brown first attracted national and international attention in '48 at Wimbledon, where he shared the doubles title with Kramer.

The tight-lipped, dark-haired six-footer was a mild sensation in our national singles that year, eliminating Frank Parker and Mulloy, before being repulsed by the extraordinary Kramer in the final.

Brown was runner-up at Wimbledon in '47, too.

Brown, an inspirational player, packs more of the power associated with the American game than does Patty.

He is an attacker and a volleyer. His slashing, hard-hitting running game is made more individualistic by a cocked forehead, which he swings upward.

Brown can only be faulted in that he has at times been inclined to be erratic.

Anything can happen in lawn tennis, of course, but those who know the rackets best tell you Tom Brown has only to beat one Aussie to keep the Davis Cup in the United States.

Sons of Italy Beat Spouts, 8-6, To Even Midget Playoff Series

The championship playoff series for the Hot Stove Midget crown was all tied up again today as the result of an 8-6 win by the Sons of Italy over the Spouts before a large crowd at Beaty field last night.

The Spouts had won the first game in the series at Jackson field last Monday by a 4-1 count.

Third and deciding game in the series is scheduled for Monday evening at 6 o'clock at Jackson field.

Mazzuca, star chucker for the Sons of Italy, went all the way for his team. He struck out six batters and allowed eight hits, including a brace of doubles by Griffin and also by Daley.

Chief Bennett started for the Spouts, but yielded to LeTrent. Bennett had nine strikeouts and LeTrent, 1b-p, 3 1 1.

HIGHLIGHTS on SPORTS

By LOU CARLSON
One Man Golf Game

Between the covers of Sports Records, repose the cold statistical results of thousands of thrilling events.

Even the records could hope to record the human elements of one of the strangest marathons—all one man golf.

It came about through a wager made by a Chicago broker, J. Smith Ferebee, who was determined to play 600 holes of golf in 8 different cities.

Ferebee had been playing steadily for four days and was now in the home stretch at Westbury, L. I. Only 18 holes and 5 more miles remained of the strange journey which had started in Los Angeles on Sunday and had progressed through Phoenix, Kansas City, St. Louis, Milwaukee, Chicago and Philadelphia.

Ferebee had walked about 40 miles each day hitting a golf ball from hole to hole from dawn to dusk. Then up in an airplane and on to the next city, catching a few snatches of sleep enroute. The tough grind ended well after midnight as Ferebee finished the tournament in a blaze of glory—with the aid of powerful searchlights from the Westbury fire trucks.

PONY LEAGUE

By The Associated Press

Ralph Butler has won his 22nd for the Hornell Dodgers, becoming the fifth pitcher in the PONY League's 12-year history to reach that mark.

The chances aren't good that Butler will top the all-time mark of 25 wins set by Bob Christophel for the Lockport Reds in 1948. The league-leading Dodgers have 12 more scheduled games, and Butler is scheduled for only two assignments.

Hornell downed Lockport last night, 8-4.

The Hamilton Cardinals regained third place from the Bradford Phillies. The Cards squelched the Olean Oilers, 8-6, while the Phils took a 5-1 beating from the Wellsville Senators.

Games tonight: Batavia at Hamilton, Hornell at Wellsville, Olean at Jamestown, Bradford at Lockport.
